Introduction

Providence Day School is more than just another private school, it's a collage of hidden talents and abilities that make our campus something special. Throughout the grade levels, no matter what passions they may have, and no matter what drives them to success, everyone has a talent that makes them unique. These devotions blend together to make Providence Day School one of the best schools through the diversity of abilities and supportive community. However, these wonderful capabilities are sometimes hidden, that is why it is important to Highlight Your Life, making these fascinations known and expressing yourself to your fullest potential.

Student Life

Fun In The Sun

Summer

Man, were we busy! This summer seemed to fly by as Providence Day students kept busy with activities, vacations, and summer jobs. Though most students enjoyed a break from academics, some still participated in world travels that enhanced their global awareness, such as trips to France and Spain to learn about art history and experience different cultures. Students who did not do extensive traveling found new and exciting experiences here at home. Some kept busy by hanging out with friends or earning some cash with summer jobs. If you were lucky, you could do both, as junior Meredith Lindblom did. She worked for Providence Plantation Swim and Racquet Club, combining a job with her love of swimming: "I really liked getting paid while still being able to have fun by the pool!" While some students took the opportunity to earn money and have fun, others took advantage of the summer programs at Providence Day. A popular program many upper school students participated in was Summer P.E, which allowed students to earn a PE credit, opening slots for other classes the following year. As their busy summers came to an end, students came back to school refreshed, relaxed, and with a variety of new and interesting experiences to share with their friends.

Trendsetters

Fashion

A great complement to the achievements of the students at Providence Day are their stylish outfits and accessories. The Providence Day runway never seemed to disappoint as the students were always up-to-date with the latest fashion-forward trends. Whether it was an urban style with combat boots and infinity scarves or a more preppy style with riding boots and large-faced watches, the females of Providence Day School always looked chic and classy. The males of the runway were seen flaunting their polo or oxford shirts paired nicely with Clark's Chukka boots or Sperry's, occasionally accessorizing with a nice pea coat or pullover sweater. All looked superb around the campus, with the faculty even deciding to rock a nice pair of khakis and a tie every once in a while. Although the clothes were important, students were nothing without accessories like their phones, some smart and others not, and their cases, along with the must-have over-the-shoulder bags, and of course the Skyrim video game always on hand. The variety of fashion shown this past year was unbeatable, as no one stood in the way of Providence Day students and their statements.

Making Headlines

Current Events

Over the course of the 2011-2012 school year, many events occurred that made this school year one to remember. On August 23rd, just a few days after the start of school, tremors from a 5.8 earthquake originating in Virginia startled PDS students. In politics, Republican rivals Mitt Romney, Newt Gingrich and Rick Santorum battled throughout the primary season to see who would take on incumbent President Barack Obama in the general election next November. In foreign relations, the United States formally ended the eight-year war with Iraq on December 18, 2011, just in time for the soldiers to come home for the holidays. In the world of technology, the Apple iPhone 4S came out in October 2011, just prior to the death of Apple's legendary founder and CEO Steve Jobs. This phone came packed full of applications and games that made the phone first in its class. Other notable deaths were those of singer Whitney Houston, who passed away suddenly in February, and legendary Penn State football coach Joe Paterno, who died in January following a tumultuous year that saw the Penn State football team embroiled in scandal. In the world of sports, the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the San Francisco Giants in seven games to win their 11th World Series championship. In pro football, the New York Giants defeated the New England Patriots 21-17 in Super Bowl XLVI. While not Super Bowl-calibre yet, the future of the Carolina Panthers appeared bright with the addition of number one draft pick Cam Newton. Newton set an NFL rushing touchdown record for quarterbacks with 13 rushing touchdowns, and was selected to the Pro Bowl after his tremendous rookie season. In entertainment news, Adele cleaned up the 2012 Grammy Awards winning six awards, including Album of the Year and Song of the Year ("Rolling in the Deep"). At the Academy Awards, the movies The Artist and Hugo each won five Oscars, with The Artist winning Best Picture and its star Jean Dujardin winning Best Actor. In the realm of wacky news, reality TV star Kim Kardashian divorced husband Kris Humphries after just 72 days of marriage. Such a wide variety of events made for a memorable 2011-2012 school year.

Charger Pride

Homecoming and Spirit Week

This year the themes for homecoming week included Movies, Vacation Travel, Music Genres, and of course PD Spirit before the big game. Each high school grade participated in numerous festivities such as games, dressed in costumes according to the theme, and other competitions in order to gain points for their grades. The day of the big game was by far the most exciting day of this year's homecoming week. It entailed the much anticipated powder puff football game and the big pep rally at the end of the day. Although the excitement and celebration was in the air, there was a large amount of competition between each upper school grade. The pep rally consisted of 5 main events; the skits, the ping pong match, the banner presentations, and the enticing dodge ball game. The powder puff bowl between the junior and senior girls stayed intense throughout the entire game. Teachers and fellow underclassmen surrounded the courts as the game went on. After a long battle, Coach Hardin announced that the win would go to the Senior girls which was well celebrated by the Class of 2012. Throughout that Friday, everyone on campus was anxious to observe the outcome of the Pep Rally activity, so when it arrived the students swarmed into the Mac ready to get pepped up. The pep rally started off with a fantastic appearance by the cheerleaders which got the crowd going. Stewart Algood definitely helped everyone get their blood flowing by leading a wave around the gym. Banners were revealed and skits were performed and all together it was a great pep rally. At the long anticipated football game that night, the chargers destroyed their opponents, Northeast Prep. They walked away from the game having won 53-0, and all the fans were proud of their team. The following day, the Homecoming dance was an opportunity for Upper School students to dress up and show of their dance moves. Overall, this Homecoming Week was one to be remembered and truly brought more school spirit to the Charger campus.

A Wish Granted

Varsity Football

As the night was growing colder on the memorable night of 11.11.11, the excitement of making it to the state championship was keeping the biggest fan section Providence Day ever hosted warm with Charger pride. Thus far with a tremendous win against Charlotte Latin for the first time in eleven years and a winning season under our belt, the varsity football players went into this state championship game with everything on the line. Never in the history of Charger football have we made it all the way to the championship game and won. Nervous players and coaches started the game off seamlessly with a lead over the Country Day Bucs for the entire first half. With five new outstanding football players this year, we had all the right components to beat one of our biggest rivals. Returning quarterback, junior Chase Ferguson, completed over 60 percent of his passes, and many believe this could have been his best throwing game to date. Junior, Gunner Cuelli stepped up with a total of 600 yards rushing at the end of the game. Ben Greenberg, as Coach Hardin says, had his "motor running" the whole game as well as Mark Brame and John Carrick who stepped up to take control over the game. Many people believed we would have a bad kicking year after Matt Morrow left us last year; however, JD Kent surprised everyone with his unbelievable kicking distance and accuracy which ultimately helped us take the lead in the first half. Senior captain Nick Velardo said, "This championship is something I will never forget. The other captains and I took ownership of the game and in the end it paid off. We were so happy when the fans stormed out and celebrated with all of us, all of our 11.11.11 wishes came true."

The Victorious Team

JV Football

The JV Football team played exceptionally well this season. Coach Zach Johnson led them to an almost perfect year with a 4-1 record. Varsity Coach Bruce Hardin said, "The group has worked hard to give service to the varsity team and played very well throughout the whole season. We are proud of their effort and winning record." From their first electrifying win against Southlake Christian, 35-7, the team pummeled all of the teams they faced. By far the highlight of their season was their 44-0 win against Camden Military. Tenth grader Lawson Ives said, "The Camden Military game was great because it gave guys who typically didn't get to see much action a chance to show what they could do. The JV players who are hoping to play varsity next year should be well prepared for the shoes they'll have to fill." Overall, the season was a great success, and many of the JV players looked forward to participating next year at the varsity level.

Learning the Game

MS Football

With many of the players playing organized football for the first time, the Middle School football team learned the fundamentals of the game. Though they were able to learn a lot and play together as a team, they had a tough season overall. The best game for the team was their 20-14 victory over Lake Norman Charter. Ryan Michocki described it as "an exciting win." From that point on, the team never gave up and kept on working hard. What soon followed was a tough loss against rival Charlotte Latin. Coach Jim Cerbie said, "The game was well played but the team was not properly prepared." They worked hard in their next game against Charlotte Christian and played good defense overall. Even though they lost their last two games, these losses prepared the team for future seasons ahead of them. All the players walked away from the season having gained a lot of knowledge about the game and were excited for the future.

Three > Five

Varsity Field Hockey

With the defeat of rival Country Day School the year before, the Varsity Field Hockey team had big expectations to live up to this season. The Chargers didn't let that intimidate them though, they had a bigger goal in mind for this season: to make the title as top four in the state, topping their previous record of fifth seed. With this mindset, the Chargers definitely played with the intent to win. Whether it was beating Charlotte Latin School or Durham Academy, the team seemed unstoppable. The 1-0 defeat of Charlotte Latin was the highlight of the season, ending Latin's two-season undefeated streak. Senior Danae Massengill, who scored the winning goal, exclaimed that "It felt amazing to give Latin a run for their money and to make Providence Day history." With the major wins of the season, going into the state seeding committee with a 14-5 record looked promising. In the end, it helped the team earn a third place ranking, an improvement over last year's fifth place ranking. At states, they fought hard and came out third overall. Great season, Chargers!

Determination

JV Field Hockey

The Chargers were the team to beat this season, and going into their last game against Myers Park they planned on upholding this title. As the time wound down and the score remained tied at 0-0, the Chargers were determined to finish their season out with a win. With one minute left in the game, Madeline Kestler received a pass on the 50 yard line from sophomore, Ansley Calandra in the backfield. She turned and dribbled down the field and sent a beautiful, cross-field pass to teammate Charlotte Downing, who then passed to Mo Ayodele. Ayodele flew past the Myers Park defender, dodged the goalie, took the shot, and the ball hit the back of the cage with a bang. And with that, despite the cold, rainy weather and the tough Myers Park team, the Chargers pulled out a well-deserved victory. As their final game proved, the junior varsity field hockey team had a very successful season.

Dynamic Duo

MS Field Hockey

The middle school field hockey team began their season with a bang as they tied the Country Day Bucs 0-0 and beat the Charlotte Latin Hawks 1-0. Even though the team was relatively young and consisted of many first time players, this didn't stop them from giving it their all each and every game. One player in particular, Claudia Westwood, didn't let her lack of experience stop her from taking initiative in the game. After the referees called a corner on the Hawks, Claudia inserted the ball to the top of the circle. With a hard hit from her teammate Lily Norris, the ball flew through the Hawk's defense, and Claudia was there ready to redirect the ball into the goal. As the ball smacked the back of the cage, the Chargers erupted in celebration. The field hockey team had a successful game and a successful season, preparing them for upper school field hockey next fall.

"We started out very strong and united but in the middle of the season, tensions rose between players, which resulted in poor performance. In the end, though, we came through together as a team to end the season strong. Good luck next year!"

Striving For Greatness

Varsity Boys Soccer

Varsity Boys Soccer goalie Tim Abrams dove dramatically and punched the ball away from the net, just milliseconds before it would have crossed the goal line. The junior's tenth save of the night proved to be no less emotional than his previous nine, and the students in the bleachers went wild, blowing vuvuzelas and cheering enthusiastically. This win against Gaston Christian, which featured an impressive shutout by Abrams, a hat trick by sophomore Tomas Hilliard, and goals by Matthew Lumino, John Tatman, Eli Kronovet, and Tanner Love, led the Varsity Boys Soccer team to one of its strongest seasons ever. Abrams recalled the strong bond the team formed throughout the season, "The team came up big this year, ending up with a sixth seed in the state tournament. We really bonded together during the season, and I feel like the team was closer than ever after the beach trip. We were united in our desire to win, and it was that lust for victory that helped us overcome our opponents. The Providence Day Mens Varsity Soccer team is a force to be reckoned with, and I wouldn't want to be in the way of the Chargers when we come charging towards you. Real Talk." As a sophomore, Tomas Hilliard expressed his excitement in continuing his soccer career at Providence Day, saying "The team had an overall great season and we look to mature and improve in years to come."

Constant Improvement

JV Boys Soccer

It was the end of the first half in the JV Boys Soccer's big game against Charlotte Latin. With the score tied 1-1 at halftime, the game looked like it would be a nail-biter. But the Providence Day boys had other ideas. The Chargers scored six goals in the second half, with a hat trick from sophomore Jack Halligan and one goal apiece from junior Will Conlin, sophomore James Pierpoint, and freshman Justin Kahl. Pierpoint also managed to rack up four impressive assists. The final score of 7-1 demonstrated the JV team's admirable quality of overcoming adversity and rising to meet every challenge with vigor. This game against Latin boosted players' morale and led them to many more wins throughout the season. "The best part of the JV season was our win against Latin... The reason we went undefeated was because we had awesome team chemistry, and I was proud to be a part of the team," recalled Pierpoint. The season was an overall success, and the team hopes to keep improving and getting stronger in the years to come.

Just For Kicks

MS Boys Soccer

The Middle School Boys Soccer team had one of their best seasons to date. With almost ten new players, this new team quickly was able to learn the skill of teamwork and fluid passing. Some of their most proud accomplishments include tying Country Day School and beating Charlotte Latin, twice. They beat them once in the regular season and once in the first round of the tournament. Eighth graders Jordan Sienkowski and Michael Mulvey said, "We love playing soccer because we love being able to play our favorite sport and hang out with our friends at the same time." The team will definitely miss the eighth graders who will be moving up to either junior varsity or varsity next year, but look forward to improving their skills and watching their team continue to grow.

All We Do Is Win

Girls Varsity Tennis

It was really no surprise that the Girls Varsity Tennis team had yet another incredible season. After an undefeated season, the girls traveled across the country to the Dana Hills Coastal Championship in California to play some of the best players in the nation. Coach Ryan Harper recalled, "It was great for our players to face such intense competition, and we feel it prepared us for the state championship title defense." Perhaps one of the best matches played locally was against St. Mary's, where senior Allyson Hoppe pulled the team through to yet another victory by winning a 10-8 third set super tiebreaker against a number three single seed St. Mary's senior. After such an incredible season, the girls headed to states as the number one seed. The gusty, cold weather seemed to not even phase the determined girls as they once again dominated nearly every match. Hoppe recalls that "every ones dedication helped us to pull though to another state title—making us state champs for three consecutive years." The girls had a phenomenal season that was rewarded with bringing home yet another state title.

Smash Hit

JV Girls Tennis

With a new year came new challenges for the Girls JV Tennis team; however, this year's group of girls proved that no challenge was too big. They faced each match with determination and perseverance and ended up having a very successful season overall. Junior Margaret Foushee recalls the season as being "the best yet!" According to Foushee, "There was great team chemistry and everyone played hard and had fun. Coach Andrew was really motivating, and it was amazing to watch everyone's playing improve throughout the season." The girls finished the season with a 5-2 record and moved on to finals as the number one seed. Although the girls didn't pull off a win against Charlotte Latin, freshman Niki Plaus and sophomore Mallory Toth dominated both of their singles matches. Throughout the season, the girls established a strong rapport that paved the way for one of the most successful seasons the team had seen in years.

Storming Through

MS Girls Tennis

This year, the middle school girls tennis team stormed the courts with an incredible undefeated season. Their biggest wins were against Charlotte Christian, Holy Trinity, and Cannon School, all with scores of 9-0. The girls all worked extremely hard to accomplish these victories. "We had an amazing season, and it was a nervous build up competing against Cannon in the finals, but we pulled it off and beat them 9-0," said Abby Mullins, who was the team's top scorer. The girls worked hard throughout the season and developed a team bond that will be missed when their 8th graders move to the Upper School teams. Each member of the team developed new skills that immensely helped the team achieve greatness this year. This success and progress will hopefully pave the way for a great season next year.

"This season is definitely a season I will always remember. Whether it be our epic comeback wins against Country Day and Durham Academy or our wobble sessions at team camp, the team always was having a ton of fun. We got closer this year than we ever have before, and I will miss everyone on the team so much next year. You guys are the best teammates ever, love you!"

—Katie Metzger

"When I go to college next year, I will look back on this season and smile. This has been our best season since I have been here, and I'm so proud of everyone's hard work. I will always remember the laughs, victories, wobble sessions, and pre-game Baby LaQueesha belly rubs of this past season. I love you guys and good luck next year!"

Comeback Team

Varsity Volleyball

The Chargers were down 14-11 in the fifth game of their second match against their rivals Country Day School. The Chargers were not about to give up after all they had worked for and lose 15-11 in the final game. They had come back from a 9-1 deficit in the fourth game, so they knew they could come back again. With a couple of kills and some defensive plays the Chargers tied the game up 14-14. The crowd was screaming louder than anyone could imagine, and the players were trying to remain focused for the last two points. The game seemed like it would never end; 15-14, then 15 all. Back and forth, the two teams kept scoring. Finally, the score was 16-16, and the Chargers were done messing around. They focused up and sure enough scored the next point, making it 17-16. Then, with shaky hands and sweaty palms, the Chargers served to the awaiting Bucs. With one pass, one set, and one hit the Bucs delivered the ball back over the net. The Chargers all turned their heads to the back right corner praying the ball wouldn't land in bounds. The ball flew through the air, landed on the ground, and the line judge motioned her hands to signal out. The Chargers rushed together, screaming and cheering at the top of their lungs. They had done it. Senior Emily Moore looked back on the match and said, "Our team had great determination in those last two games, and we were able to come back in the end. This win gave our team a lot of confidence moving forward and helped prepare us for the tougher teams ahead." This game was the epitome of how the season went for the Chargers. They won over double the number of games they had won in the previous season and played remarkably well in tournaments. The Chargers ended up making it to states, a feat they had not accomplished the previous year, and everyone walked away from the season very satisfied after completing many of the goals they had originally made at the beginning of the season.

Finishing Strong

JV Volleyball

It was a game to be remembered. The Chargers were playing the Country Day Bucs, their biggest rivals, and they were determined to come out victorious. They had the fans on their side, and the entire Varsity team was cheering them. Each game came down to the last couple of points. In the first game, they won 25-20, but they knew this battle wasn't over. In the second game, the chargers did whatever they could to keep their small lead over the Bucs. The fans cheered and screamed giving the team all the support they could get. In the end, the Chargers won the game 25-21 in a close fought battle and had nothing but smiles on their faces that day. They continued to be successful the rest of the season and beat their other rivals including Cannon twice. Overall, the Chargers had a very successful season and walked away proud of all they had learned this year.

Teamwork

MS Volleyball

Middle School Volleyball this year was all about learning the fundamentals of the game. Coach Gerlach worked hard to instill a great amount of discipline in these young players, to build the team's overall chemistry. Their biggest game this year was against rivals Country Day School. Both Samantha Savage and Amy Loeber played incredible defense, while Julianna Roupas served seven aces out of her total of ten serves. The team beat the Bucs 2-0, winning the first game 25-14 and the second game 25-22. This was clearly their biggest win of the season, and definitely a game worth remembering. The team learned a lot this year and everything came together in the end. The team motto was, "Teamwork. It is simply stated. It is less me and more we." This motto summed up their season and showed how selfless each player was. They were willing to do whatever it took to play together as a team and come out on top in most of their games. The players looked forward to even better results from the experience they gained in the years ahead.

"The team this season was very young, but that didn't stop us from bringing home a state title. It meant a lot that we had so many fans, and I'm going to miss all the runners next year a ton."

Young, Fast, and Free

Varsity Cross Country

The rhythmic pounding of hundreds of feet on the earth, the feeling of pure concentration, and the tension in the air can only mean one thing: a cross country meet is in progress. This organized stampede can be chaotic, but the one thing every pair of eyes could discern this year was Providence Day's domination of the terrain. Senior Ryan Melton said, "We had such a strong team. At conferences, even if we didn't run our top five runners, we still would have won." The hours of hard work the team put in this year led to new personal and course records and another trip to states, where the boys team won it all for the second year in a row, while the girls' team took fifth place. Although the boys didn't take the top three spots, they won through their depth and consistency: Reed Payne and Ben Huffman took 4th and 5th place, respectively, pushing the Chargers over the top for the win. One of the most remarkable aspects of this remarkable season was that only one of the boys and two of the girls who made states were seniors. Despite their lack of experience, the underclass runners consistently ran at the top of the pack. These Chargers pounded the earth and the competition, leaving everyone else merely trotting in their dust.

Non-stop

MS Cross Country

The middle school cross country team's unwavering dedication had no equal. Although every sports team has some sort of conditioning, no team expects for cross country is entirely conditioning. This resolute group of middle schoolers ran miles upon miles every day for practice, honed their bodies into perfect shape, and never broke stride. Christian Saber, an eighth grader, said, "Although it was a strenuous season, I enjoyed it. I liked the feeling of accomplishment when I broke a personal record and then building on that for next time." This team found real joy in running, something most sports dread. To expect this of any high school student would be wishful thinking, but for middle school students to be held to the same caliber is unheard of. These athletes showed true dedication as they ran hard miles this year and did a great job doing it.

Pom It Up

MS Cheerleading

The middle school cheerleading team spent most of their season learning new cheers and working on their routine for the middle school pep rally. Having new girls on the squad this year greatly improved what they could do with stunts and being able to tumble. "This season when we started stunting, we weren't that experienced, but we achieved our goals and learned a lot," said seventh grader Allie Yevak. With some of the cheerleaders being entirely new to cheering, they started out as a young team who grew together and showed their Charger spirit at every middle school football game they attended. They even took on the hard task of doing push ups when the football team scored, just as the varsity cheerleaders did. As they finished off the season, eighth grader Kyra Swartz said, "At the beginning there were eleven separate people who by the end came together as a team."

Stomp And Shake It

Varsity Cheerleading

"C'mon ladies, let's do this just like in practice!" said junior captain Lexi Ferrette to the rest of the cheerleaders. That motivation helped the cheerleading team perform an outstanding routine for the homecoming pep rally that won't be forgotten. New stunts, along with improved tumbling skills, showed off how much the Varsity Cheerleading team had transformed over the past few years. Aside from the crowd going nuts after their performance, the cheerleaders continued to show off their Charger spirit during the homecoming football game. Although the weather was chilly, the team always was pumping up the crowd and the football team. On another cold Friday night when the football team whooped Charlotte Christian 28-0, it was pouring down rain. All of the cheerleaders put on their clear rain ponchos and continuously cheered on the crowd through the rain. All of the girls agreed that standing alongside the PDS students and getting to cheer with them made the game even more exciting for them. Every cheerleader loved the moment right after the game when they got to run to the huddle. Especially junior Allison Kelly, who was the first to charge onto the wet, sloshy field to congratulate the team on their big win. Seniors Rebecca Horoschak and Anna Shealy both agreed that this was the best group of girls to spend their final season with.

Varsity Girls Golf

This year the girls varsity golf team expanded in size as well as talent. With a total of nine girls, the team was able to motivate each other on and off the course. They worked hard on improving not only their drives, but also their short game. The veteran girls helped the younger girls improve their abilities, which added to the team chemistry. The traveling team, which included Emily Dickson, Lauren Dillingham, Sara Hader, Sarah Johnson, and Kelsey Perry, scored the lowest score in PDS varsity girls golf history. Their combined efforts were what made it possible for them to reach this momentous accomplishment. The girls were proud to say that they were a part of history in competing in the first NCISSA girls state championship on October 24th. "This season we have really improved from last year. We made it to the state championship which is a huge accomplishment for us. Also every single one of us improved significantly. I am looking forward to all of us having an outstanding season next year!" said junior Sara Hader. Though they didn't place in the tournament, the girls gained valuable experience and plan to work extremely hard in hopes of winning the title next year.

Clutch Shooters

Varsity Boys Basketball

It was the beginning of the fourth quarter and the varsity boys basketball team was fighting hard to beat the Charlotte Country Day Bucs, one of their fiercest rivals. The game was neck and neck as the score was tied 71-71 in the last few seconds. The Chargers' fans were cheering in their aerobics attire which included neon tights, tennis shoes, and bright, multicolored tank tops, with the anticipation of the final outcome. The Country Day gym suddenly got quiet and tension filled the air. All eyes were on sophomore Jordan Watkins. With eight seconds left in the fourth quarter, the Chargers had possession of the ball and Watkins raced down the court to successfully shoot an NBA three-pointer, a shot made from beyond the three point line. The ball gracefully slid through the net simultaneously as the buzzer went off to end the game. The Chargers finally beat the Country Day Bucs and celebrated their well earned victory with a final score of 74-71 as the enthusiastic fans stormed the court. Even with such a young team, the Charger boys had their shining moments of victory, setting a good foundation for next year's team as they grow alongside their teammates.

All Together

JV Boys Basketball

The JV Boys Basketball players made it through their season focusing on team-building skills and gaining experience. They knew that if they worked together and improved on their skills during practices, they would play better together as a whole. Their strongest game of the season was against Camden Military, where they beat the Spartans 66-27. This victory came through hard work and their ability to play as a team. Each and every player played a key role in this season and fought hard to strive for excellence both in practice and in games. No Lie, Ballin'

7th Grade Boys Basketball

This year's seventh grade basketball team had a very successful season, winning nearly all of their games and showing a mastery of their skills in just their first year of playing a sport at PDS. With Parker Mosack and Gale Montgomery, leading the team on offense, and Tommy Downing leading a solid defense, the team won a nail-biter against Holy Trinity, 32-30. Hopefully these boys can dominate the courts as a part of next year's eighth grade team.

"This year has been one of the best years to be a part of the basketball team. We stayed together through ups and downs and loved every second of it. I am going to miss everyone next year."

—Tiffany Mitchell

"This was one of our best years yet; not only did we grow as a team, but there was a bond between 12 girls that can never be replaced. I'm proud of what we have accomplished and what's in store for us in the future."

Can't Be Beat

Varsity Girls Basketball

The varsity girls basketball team had more in mind than just winning states this year, they focused more on improving their national rank. With Carolina Day School standing in their way, the girls were determined to dominate in the upcoming game. Fans crowded the stands, dressed head to toe in pink for the annual Think Pink game to raise money for breast cancer awareness. This was the biggest, loudest crowd seen at any game this season. In addition to the hard work and determination shown by the players, Carolina Day didn't stand a chance. With the game ending in a 60-45 victory for the Chargers, they had successfully defeated the defending 2A North Carolina state champions. Other successes for the season included becoming conference champions, Jatarie White being selected for the 16 and under US Olympic Basketball Team, and seniors Tiffany Mitchell, Dacia Thompson, and Olivia Parker signing to play in college the following year. Winning their third state title in a row, the team had a very successful season and kept up the great reputation that had been previously set.

Nothin' But Net

JV Girls Basketball

This year the JV girls team worked extremely hard together in efforts of achieving many great wins. The team started out with only four players and later expanded to eight girls. The greatest and most memorable win was against the school's number one rival, Charlotte Latin. Emma Brown said, "Our greatest win was against Latin, we won 23-13. It was an intense game, and we were close in the first half but the second half we came out strong and won by ten." Throughout the season, the team showed impeccable sportsmanship and continued to encourage each other throughout the season. They motivated each other by sharing inspirational quotes on their team facebook page before each game. The girls look forward to improving their athletic abilities individually. In order to become even stronger athletes, in hopes of having an undefeated season in years to come.

8th Grade Girls Basketball

The eighth grade girls team definitely turned it up a notch this season with their enthusiasm for the sport. Win or lose, these girls fought to the finish. The team defeated Country Day 34-29. Celine Ives said, "The highlight was definitely beating Country Day the second time we played them. Since we lost the first time, it was such a rush to see how we improved." Although the team's scores remained up and down throughout the season, their hard work and dedication was impressive, and the girls looked forward to moving up and representing their school as upper schoolers.

There It Is!

7th Grade Girls Basketball

The seventh grade girls basketball team started off their season with guns blazing when they won their very first game against rivals Charlotte Latin. The score remained close throughout, before the girls pulled through with a 16-15 victory. The team was ecstatic about winning their first game and being able to represent PDS as a team for the first time. Their most memorable game by far was the game against United Faith, in which the girls dominated in their defense efforts, and came away with an outstanding 30-2 win. Each teammate contributed her individual talents to make for a very successful season.

Overcoming The Odds

Varsity Wrestling

The Varsity Wrestling team pulled out a fantastic season this year despite the challenges they faced. This year's group of young men were one of the smallest teams to date, not to mention there were several new wrestlers that had no prior experience. As the season progressed, there was only four of the fourteen weight classes filled which would seem to be a strong disadvantage for any team, however, this year's group of boys rose to the challenge and not only met their goals, but demolished them. The boys ended up bringing home a second place trophy from conferences and a fourth place trophy at States, and even a few were sent to Nationals. In the heat of the States match, junior Ben Greenberg was down by one point until he flipped his opponent in the last two seconds of the match and gained two back points, thus winning the close match by one. Junior Amit Naik dominated his competition at states and was proudly awarded first place for his weight class, for the third year in a row. Although this team had a lot of challenges facing them in the beginning, they overcame them all and made PD proud.

Hit the Mat

MS Wrestling

The middle school wrestling team fought their hardest all year, win or loss, they always gave it their best. Over the many matches they had, their most successful one was when they defeated Indianland Middle School in South Carolina. The match ended with a score of 42-30, by far their best match of the season. Eighth grader Solomon Key was a "key" player of the match when he came out with the fastest pin of the day at 27 seconds. Eighth grader Jake Cohen and seventh grader Reed Baker were also successful in leading the team to victory, and also won their matches by pinning their opponents quickly. The number of wins weren't important for this team, just as long as they came out on top.

Diving On In

MS Swimming

The middle school swimming team dove right into pool of success this season. Meeting everyday after school to practice at the Jewish Community Center, the team had time to improve their skills. Eighth grader Grant Kelleher said, "It was difficult for the boys to adjust to the meets in the beginning, and then we started to get the hang of it. Although we didn't win any meets we definitely improved, and I look forward to dominating next year." The girls began with a rough start as well but they brought home the win against rival Covenant Day School. The middle school swim team worked very hard all season and strengthened their times and impressed everyone this year.

"We had a great season this year. I'm really proud of everyone's hard work, especially at the conference and state meets."

—Tommy O'Gorman

Swimmin' to Success

Varsity Swimming

This year the Providence Day Varsity Swim team did more than just swim. Although they were ludicrously diving into water during the winter, this team trained hard throughout the season and dominated the competition. With a seven wins and only two losses, the Chargers set records as they powered through their lanes. With tough meets and even tougher practices, this team fought for every second they knocked off their already stellar personal records. Senior Matt Humphrey said, "I joined the swim team to hang out with a couple friends after school because one of my friends said it wasn't bad. Little did I know this was a tough team, and I quickly became sore every night when I went home." The team beat the defending state champions, Country Day, this year in a die-hard rally at the end of the meet. The team really came together to pull out this win and showed their determination at the end. To wrap up the season, the Varsity Swimming Team competed in the state tournament where the boys placed 6th and the girls placed 5th out of twenty-one teams. Both teams' hard work and dedication paid off as records were broken and races were won.

We Won't Back Down

PD Pride

School spirit is an essential component of any school community, and especially so at Providence Day School. Ask athletes from any of our teams, and they would agree that there was nothing more inspiring than hearing their classmates, teachers, and parents cheering them on from the sidelines. Whether it was stopping to cheer on a tennis match while walking down to the gym or traveling to "the bubble" to watch a swim meet, students and faculty rarely missed the opportunity to support their favorite teams. PD Pride was shown by dressing up, making signs, and shouting cheers. For themed games, students could be seen dressed up as cowboys and cowgirls, their favorite animal, neon attire, and many other outfits. During the winter season, school spirit was heightened this year by the introduction of the "Winter Cup" which was a competition among the upper school grade levels which created a strong sense of camaraderie and helped fill seats at sporting events. The sophomores were victorious when it came to this competition and received a party to celebrate. Every team improved in some way and, after the athletes themselves, credit for this goes to the undying support of students, faculty and parents. As every member of the PDS community knew, "We won't back down, we won't give in!"

A Helping Hand

Service Clubs

The most dominant clubs at PDS have always been those that revolve around community service. Different activities ranging from Charger House to Operation Christmas Child to First Grade Buddies have existed to help enrich the lives of Providence Day School students. Key Club projects were primarily school related community service tasks such as volunteering at Spring Fling, assisting the facilities crew with clean-up after sporting events, and helping out around campus when needed. Beta Club, on the other hand, focused more on helping the greater Charlotte community. Service projects included housing the homeless with Charger House, assisting Spanish-speaking citizens with Amigos de la Biblioteca, and building houses with Habitat for Humanity. Another popular project this year was First Grade Buddies, which allowed upper school students to form relationships with first graders, giving the young ones an upper schooler to look up to. The service clubs around school were a great way for students to give back to their community while also broadening their horizons.

Always Learning

Academic Clubs

For those who weren't already satisfied with seven hours of learning a day, clubs like Academic Team, Math and Computer Club, World Quest, Pulsar Search Collaboratory, Science Olympiad and Book Club gave students the opportunity to engage in clubs that sparked even more intellectual thought. These clubs consisted of individuals with passion for learning who liked to challenge themselves and who competed against rival schools in statewide competitions. Academic Team participated in tournaments throughout the year that tested students' knowledge of a wide range of events and information with trivia questions. Academic Team and Science Olympiad participated in regional and state competitions that focused on scientific topics, ranging from how to build a catapult to anatomy and physiology. World Quest members dedicated an immense amount of time and energy to learning world facts, and their hard work paid off when they earned second place among area schools. Math Club, Book Club, and Computer Club allowed interested students to learn more about topics that weren't taught in school. The students in all of the clubs learned a lot, had fun, and brought home many medals, keeping up their strong reputation and setting high standards for next year's members.

Worldly Students

Global Clubs

Students at Providence Day have the opportunity to get involved with a plethora of clubs encompassing a wide range of interests. Clubs that focused on the diverse cultural aspects of life were popular this year. Model United Nations (MUN), Fellowship of Christian Athletes (FCA), Human Rights Alliance (HRA), and Cultural Alliance were the school's most popular global clubs. MUN participated in conferences several times over the course of the year, developing solutions to various international problems and conflicts in mock UN sessions. FCA helped student athletes connect with their faith, though participants were not required to be athletes nor of the Christian faith. HRA worked to create unity and equal rights in the Providence Day community, as well as educate students about sexual orientation, bullying, and other relevant topics. Cultural Alliance promoted an environment that celebrates an understanding of different races and religions. Major global clubs at Providence Day also included the Hebrew Language Club, French Connection, Club Shalom, Chinese Club, Japanese Club, and International Club. The cultural clubs invested their time in learning about religions and languages, and exposed students to the diverse world in which we live.

Just For Fun!

Sports and Outdoor Clubs

Among the brilliant students at Providence Day, extracurricular sports clubs play a vital role in the student's lives. Whether it's gliding down the slopes or jumping into a split, both boys and girls have found these sports and outdoor clubs to be entertaining. Popular among high school girls is the Dance Team Club. Weekly practices during the winter months helped perfect high spirited routines they performed in front of pep rallies and Varsity Basketball games. Another favorite throughout the upper school is Ski Club. Monthly trips to Sugar Mountain and the yearly trip out west allowed club members to meet other students with similar interests. Clubs such as Outdoor Club and Environmental Club exist to give the more nature oriented students a chance to explore nature. Whether it was playing ultimate frisbee, playing a game of ping pong, or hiking in the mountains, students were able to share a common interest while hanging out with their friends.

Express Yourself

Publication Clubs

Students who were interested in writing, photography, and poetry, and wanted to demonstrate their skills, could do so through Pendragon, The Charger newspaper, or the satirical Charging Backwards. Pendragon was a club where students were able to submit pieces of writing, poetry, or photography. The members of Pendragon then reviewed and chose their favorites to be in this year's edition. Once selected, the pieces were published in a booklet for the Providence Day community to read and admire. The Charger newspaper covered everything from sports to campus life to what's trendy and was published every few months for students to pick up and read around campus. Likewise, an anonymous group of senior boys decided to start a satirical newspaper called Charging Backwards. While The Charger covered a variety of school news, Charging Backwards stuck with highlighting funny and sometimes touchy subjects around campus. Some unique aspects in this past year's newspaper were an interview with alumni Reggie Love, the "can you name that fish" contest, and hidden messages left for students to decipher. Overall, many talents were shown through this year's publication clubs.

Getting Artsy

Visual Arts

Scattered around Providence Day's campus, student, faculty, and alumni artwork showcased the community's wide array of talent. From acrylic paintings, to clay pots, and environmental art pieces everyone from lower school to the A.P. Studio art class had their work displayed around school. In Mrs. Helm's class, lower school students learned cutting paper techniques to make self portraits and painted winter scenes on bright paper to showcase in their hallway. Middle school students in Mrs. Arecco's and Mrs. Down's classes learned the process of molding, scoring, slipping, and firing clay when they made small ceramic pieces, which they decorated with bright paint. In the upper school, Mr. Wallace, the head of the Visual Arts Department, had students explore values in charcoal drawings and color theory in acrylic self portraits. The most experienced class at Providence Day was Mr. Dewey's A.P. Studio class. Students in this class spent the year making high quality pieces for their portfolio, which they submitted as their A.P. examination requirement. While students learned about artists and art movements in all of their art classes, those who wished to explore art history in depth took Mr. Wallace's A.P. Art History course. From lower school through upper school, students gained a great understanding of the visual arts, and their hard work and dedication was visible in the work they displayed around the campus.

Dare To Perform

Performing Arts

Along with middle school and upper school theater productions, chorus, and band and string performances, the Providence Day Performing Arts department had quite an exciting year. Whether it was playing a character on stage or creating a new piece for the next choral performance, students were passionate about their efforts. The school's theater productions varied from the upper school Hamlet and all school Guys and Dolls productions to Mr. Memije's own Mima Maskara. With the sudden departure of Mr. Tansor during the spring production of Guys and Dolls, the challenge of putting on the show fell into the hands of seniors Savannah Kolodziej, Lizzie Forman, Emma Cleek, and Erin Bailey. Working incredibly hard, these seniors rose to the occasion and put on a show that turned out to be one of the school's best musicals to date. All of this year's theatrical productions elicited huge turnouts, with the PDS community appreciative of the talent and effort put into each show. Music students enrolled in the band, strings, and chorus classes also had the chance to showcase their talents. Lower school students participated in daily music classes and 5th graders earned the opportunity to be part of chorus, band, and strings ensembles. Throughout the year the students worked rigorously on perfecting their tone and making sure that every note was played or sung correctly. Sophomore jazz band member Alex Sherman described his time and performances with the PDS jazz band as "rewarding and exhilarating". Whether it was a theater production or a musical performance, the Performing Arts department did not disappoint this year.

Academic

Here, There, and Everywhere

PDS Welcomes Dr. Cowlshaw

Students were captivated this year by the appearance — seemingly everywhere on campus — of a smiling and energetic man who spoke with a British accent. Dr. Glyn Cowlshaw, our new headmaster, hails from England and his academic career has spanned the United Kingdom, the Middle East, and the Southeastern United States. Dr. Cowlshaw first decided to come to PDS in October of 2010. It was during his first visit that he decided that PDS was the school for him. He was astounded by “the sense of community allied to strive for high standards” and the school’s “balance between academics and arts”. The twenty plus years of experience he brings to Providence Day promises to make our school even stronger. Upper School Director Ben Topham noted that Dr. Cowlshaw’s “vision, energy, enthusiasm, and positive attitude” and “21st century skills” make him a great fit for the school, while Lower School Director Cindi Gibbs-Wilborn was impressed by Dr. Cowlshaw’s ambition and his “ability to connect with students, faculty, and families.” In just a short time Dr. Cowlshaw made an impact by his presence at school activities. His participation in pep rallies and lower school activities always put a smile on peoples’ faces. In the next ten years Dr. Cowlshaw sees our school growing in great ways. He hopes to expand the global studies program, the math and science departments and our language department. Dr. Cowlshaw also has plans on the development of a new stadium field. Most importantly, he wants our school to keep moving forward while “never losing sight of our key academic foundations”. Welcome to PDS, Dr. Cowlshaw!

World Renowned

Faculty

It is easy to say, Providence Day would not be the magnificent school that it is without its outstanding faculty. Coming to school every morning seeing the faculty's smiling faces brightened every students' day. Each faculty member made it easy to create a comfortable student-teacher relationship, which gave the community a sense of ease and belonging. The energetic atmosphere created by the teachers inspired the students at Providence Day to excel in their individual talents. The new faculty members this year were quickly welcomed by all of the veteran teachers and were able to adjust to the new environment quickly, feeling right at home. A veteran of 23 years, as well as last year's recipient of the lower school teacher of the year award, Mrs. Henderson, said her favorite part of working at Providence Day was "Being with supportive faculty and parents, and being able to see the excitement of the students faces everyday."

Celebrating 37 Wonderful Years!

PDS Says Goodbye to Mr. Topham

In the fall of 1974, a young man arrived on the Providence Day campus who was destined to have a strong impact on the school. At the time of his arrival there was no Tech Building, no Fine Arts Building, no MAC, and no King Library, and the student body was one third its current size. For the past 37 years the school has been blessed to have this unique man, Mr. Ben Topham, grow along with the school and touch the lives of so many students and faculty. His caring personality and strong sense of community constantly helped and inspired the people surrounding him. Whether it was giving students tips on how to study for exams, or calling teachers together for a meeting on how to relieve stress in everyone's lives, his involvement in the school showed how much he truly cared. At one point in the 1980's Mr. Topham chaired the Science Department, worked in College Guidance, and served as the Upper School Director – all at the same time. Mr. Sam Caudill, Middle School Director, said "Working with Mr. Topham has been wonderful. I have known him for over 30 years and worked with him as Upper School Dean for four years. During that period we built a relationship that has lasted for years. It has been a great experience and I will miss him." Other members of the PDS community agree that he will be sorely missed. Lower School Director Mrs. Cindi Gibbs-Wilborn stated that "Mr. Topham is a great role model for a character trait that we often celebrate at Providence Day - pride. Ben is so proud of Providence Day, and has had a lot of things to celebrate as the school has grown, transitioned, and evolved. He never came across as boastful, yet his quiet sense of pride always spoke volumes to me." The PDS community commends Mr. Topham for his hard work and dedication to the school, and wishes him the best as he begins a new chapter in his life.

"Ben's leadership over the course of three decades have been instrumental to the growth and development of Providence Day we all know and recognize as an outstanding institution."

—Mrs. Bobbie Hinson

"Mr. Topham has been a large factor in helping Providence Day grow as a community. He really got all the students to connect." —Maddie McFeeley (Sophomore)

"Mr. Topham wasn't just a great Upper School Director, he was a great friend and mentor, as well. We'll all miss him and wish him luck in his retirement."

—Matthew De May (Senior)

"Mr. Topham is a very considerate and friendly and is always welcoming. He has always been very helpful to anyone in need of guidance."

Exploring The World

Global Studies

In a world characterized by rapid change and global expansion, Providence Day's Global Studies program was committed to helping high school students acquire essential skills needed to survive and excel in our globally changing community. The Global Studies program was built upon the belief that students should be aware of other cultures and adept at interacting with people of diverse backgrounds. Students enrolled in the program were required to engage in certain classes and activities before they graduate. Courses required ranged from eastern and western religion classes to political discussion classes such as Global Issues. Among the activities the program offered were exchange programs with sister schools around the world. This year students from Germany, Guatemala, and China came to study at PDS. Sophomore Andrew Liu, a Chinese exchange student from Nanjing who had been here for two years, and plans on staying at PDS his whole high school career says that, "The most important reason why I want to stay here at PDS is because of my friends. I have a lot of fantastic friends, and I'm so happy to talk with them." Summer trips to China, Spain, Germany, Costa Rica, and Israel have proved to be a fulfilling and life changing experience for many PDS students. Sophomore Ryan Slep went on the Germany trip and said "It was a great experience, being able to interact with a different culture and speaking a different language the entire time." The program also put on it's second biennial Global Day in November, offering a sampling of cultural activities and delicious dishes from different countries. Since its founding, the Global Studies program has proved to be an important feature of our school and just one of the many factors that distinguishes PDS among competing schools.

"The Providence Day School Global Studies Program goes far beyond the means of giving students the opportunity to obtain a second high school diploma. Rather, the program seeks to increase awareness of both persisting global issues and foreign cultures."
—Neha Kukreja

"The Global Studies program is a wonderful educational tool to compare cultures around the world. Even though the program itself isn't perfect, it provides the language skills and opportunities relished by businesses and governments around the world."
—Daniel Holtzschue

A Special

What is a skyscraper without a solid foundation? Nothing. Providence Day is strong because of its strong base that supports it, which we wouldn't have if it weren't for our phenomenal staff. This past year, these wonderful men and women kept our school running, so that we could enjoy PDS day after day. Our staff comes from a vast amount of countries, and they all take pride in their jobs. It was hard to find Providence Day staff members without smiles on their faces. Many students developed friendships with them, whether it was carrying out a conversation with the dining hall crew or exchanging a smile with the facilities staff in the hallway, every staff member was by far the friendliest people to meet. It was amazing the amount of time each and every one of them put in to make our school beautiful and functioning.

Lower School

Walking from the Ferry Boat to their classrooms, the lower school students hung up their book bags and were eager to begin another day full of learning. Whether it was the young TKers or the older fifth graders, all students took part in a curriculum that prepared them for their transition to the next grade. Lower school teachers played many fun activities that related to each unit of study. Topics like the Amazon Rainforest animals, Flat Stanleys, North Carolina lighthouses, Wright Brothers' planes, and Charlotte's Web spiders were displayed throughout the lower school halls. These vital years also allowed students to experiment with a wide variety of academics like science and history units and a choice of foreign language classes that set a good foundation for middle school in the years to come. No matter the grade, all students were prepared for the upcoming year thanks to their devoted teachers and hard work they put in each and every day.

The Good Years

Transitional Kindergarten

The most blissful and genuine place on campus was hands down the TK hall. These students enjoy their learning so much the atmosphere they give off creates a smile on everyone's face. If the school career can be compared to a marathon, the TK year is the beginning to which they all enjoy and look to what they will accomplish in their further years. They learned languages everywhere from Chinese to Spanish. They learned their letters and numbers; they even learned cultures from around the world, and they enjoyed every moment of this fine start.

A Whole New World

Kindergarten

Walking down the halls of Providence Day School can be quite an intimidating experience. With class changes, hectic schedules, and "big kids," kindergartners may find themselves a bit lost. However with the new exciting opportunities offered, this year's kindergarten class took the year on as a challenge. Equipped with their very own cubbies to store their books and belongings, a second story loft in their classrooms for activities, and an endless amount of resources to keep their minds busy, kindergartners found themselves not lost in the crowd but standing out in it. Within the classroom, the students thrived in hands-on activities, arts and crafts, and a comfortable learning environment. For the first time ever, students were introduced to their very own class set of iPads, with which they were able to take their learning to a whole new level. When they weren't working hard at their desks, kindergartners enjoyed listening to their teachers read them stories in reading corners and letting their imaginations run wild. Another exciting event in Kindergarten was the Halloween Parade in which students were allowed to show off their Halloween costumes while they paraded the halls of Providence Day. With a year full of fun activities, the students held fond memories of what they had learned down their Kindergarten hall.

Endless Opportunities

First Grade

It was quite a busy year for this year's first grade class. In previous years, the students had developed a strong foundation for their learning, but it wasn't until this year that their skills were really put to the test. Throughout the year, students took several field trips to Reedy Creek Park to observe how birds, insects, and other organisms interact with each other. Students also took their math skills to the next level with the introduction of addition, subtraction, problem solving, and even geometric shapes. When their minds weren't busy in the classroom, first graders often enjoyed playing outside at recess with their classmates. Once November rolled around, students studied the American Colonists and the Wamanoag Indians, dressing up in colonial style clothing and spent the day constructing a village and sampling different foods. It was no secret that first grade was a dynamic year of learning, with exciting opportunities offered for each and every student.

World Travelers

Second Grade

The second grade spent the year "traveling" around the world and learning about the cultures of the seven continents. The year culminates with a trip to the Riverbanks Zoo in Columbia, South Carolina where students got to see up close the animals they had been studying from around the world. Academically, the second graders learned cursive, and addition and subtraction with regrouping. They also had a year full of memorable projects such as turning their hallway into the Coral Sea and Amazon Rain Forest. A favorite project this year was Flat Stanley. This was where the students made a paper doll and sent it off to family or friends around the world. Once the students received their dolls back, they were able to see all the fun places their dolls got to visit. Every month the whole second grade came together as a community to celebrate being a second grader at the student-lead meetings called "Second G," where different classes performed holiday songs for the grade. This exciting year allowed the students to develop skills they will carry with them for the rest of their lower, middle, and upper school careers.

Transition Year

Third Grade

At the halfway point in the lower school journey, third grade was a transition year for the students as the academic rigor and schedule picked up the pace to better prepare them for the years to come. The major academic focus for the third graders was studying immigration in their social studies class, with special attention on the early countries that settled in the Charlotte area. In addition, new lessons such as cursive handwriting, multiplication, and division were no obstacle for the versatile students as they excelled in these areas throughout the year. To add to their studies, all classes participated in an immigration reenactment, a visit to the Catawba Indian site at the Schiele Museum, and an outing to Reed Gold Mine where they panned for gold before finishing off the year with the study of Charlotte's Web. The third graders were definitely prepared for their upcoming leap into the fourth grade.

A Year of Travels

Fourth Grade

The fourth grade this year was known for it's many adventures outside the world of Providence Day School. They took their first overnight trip to Fort Fisher where they got to explore marshes, learn about ecosystems, and bond as a class. Along with Fort Fisher, they also drove up to Raleigh and Old Salem. In Raleigh, they learned all about the state capital and the structure of the state government. They also were able to explore the town of Old Salem and learn a lot about our state's history. Lastly, they drove over to Crisis Assistance Ministry to help with a household items and clothing drive one afternoon in early December. Back in the classroom, they learned how to be independent students and develop stronger organizational, study, and test taking skills. Another fun activity the fourth graders participated in was the dissection of a chicken wing, which was definitely a memorable event for all of the students. Overall, the fourth graders enjoyed travelling around their home state and learning new things in the classroom, and that's what made fourth grade a year to remember.

New Year, New Opportunities

Fifth Grade

The fifth grade students had a year full of new experiences that made their last year in lower school one to remember. Whether it was their class trip to Camp Thunderbird, the nutrition field trip to Queens College, or the community service projects like UNICEF and Urban Ministries, the students participated in experiences that allowed for them to bond as a class. Reaching the top of the lower school, the fifth graders were rewarded with new curricular activities. They completed their first dissection of a cow's eye in science, learned all fifty states and their respective capitals as well as facts about the Civil War and American Revolution in history, partook in either band, chorus, or strings in the area of fine arts, and had the opportunity to choose what language they wished to study for the rest of the year. The fifth graders ended their year with a class picnic at Boyce Park and the lower school graduation ceremony, where they celebrated and recalled the memories they shared together as a class. The fifth graders were well prepared for their time in middle school, which was just around the corner.

Middle School

Middle school was a time of preparation and a time for training. Middle school was also influential in teaching the students studying techniques. This introduced them into different classes and schedules throughout the day, helping them be independent by the time they reach high school. Middle school students learned that as the expectations grew higher, so did the level of freedom. School dances were a favorite activity because of the friends who attended and also because of the increase in school spirit. Students also got to play middle school sports, which helped the athletes hone their skills in their favorite sport or get a feel of a new sport. These Chargers got to train both on the field and in the classroom, preparing them for the road ahead. Some even began to spread out into different math tracks, gaining the ability to move at their own pace. Middle school was a time for these students to learn and prepare, and they thrived in the supportive community.

A New Beginning

Sixth Grade

The one word that everybody said when asked to describe what the students like about sixth grade was "freedom." Not having to sit in the same classroom or be taught by the same teacher the whole year was a big change for these kids because now they were a part of middle school. Switching classes and also having a locker made the experience even better. Sixth grader Dayna Asher said that she "really liked going class to class without a teacher and how they make every class fun and different." Not only were the classes really fun because students were able to choose their own electives, but so was their class trip. Sixth graders got to embark to the fun-filled camp of Camp Cheerio which had many outdoor activities to participate in. Activities included a zipline, mudslide, canoeing, hiking, and even rockclimbing. Overall, the first year in middle school for these young students was definitely one they will never forget.

Moving Up the Ranks

Seventh Grade

Seventh grade was a year where the students were able to gain more independence. One of the most exciting aspects of the seventh grade was having the ability to participate in sports. Madison Young said, "Finally, we don't have to be the ones in the stands while everyone has fun on the field and on the court. It's the best feeling getting a chance to be on a team doing what you love most, sports." Another highly mentioned aspect of being in seventh grade was that they could now choose which level of math they would be in. This was their first time the seventh graders had a choice in one of their classes and was great preparation for upper school. This group of seventh graders got the chance to experience a fun trip to the beautiful city of Charleston. They were able to bond together as a class and had a lot of fun on the trip overall. After having a great year the seventh graders are excited to move on to be the head of middle school next year.

Top of The Line

Eighth Grade

Eighth grade is vital year in the life of a Providence Day student. This last stepping stone before entering upper school is a great transition time for all students to really understand the meaning of self-reliance and the use of surrounding resources. The eighth grade school year was full of fun experiences like the Chinese luncheon, getting their own lunch line, and leaving assembly first. Not only were they top dogs of the middle school, but they also had a great trip to look forward to at the end of the year. Every year, the eighth grade class travels to Williamsburg, VA and gets to participate in ghost tours, go to the zoo, and at the end of the trip, they get a chance to run around Bush Gardens and ride all the roller coasters. On the academic side, the study of completing circuits and dissecting frogs in 8th Grade Science were sure favorites among students. Others enjoyed the helpful tool of navigating the world in geography. This memorable school year gave the students a chance to slowly develop into well attained ninth graders.

Upper School

On the cusp of becoming young adults, students loved the freedom and opportunities that came with being in the upper school. Upper school allowed students to take more action in arranging their schedule as many new classes were presented through a variety of electives, including the Global Studies and Advanced Placement classes. Other extracurricular activities like Community Service Clubs, school dances, and sports existed to assist students in getting involved in the community. While freshman adjusted to the changes from middle school, sophomores continued the transitions as they began to get more involved with high school opportunities. Juniors worked hard to prepared themselves for college, and the seniors cherished the final moments around the campus with life-long friends. Although academics were challenging, students worked hard to establish a relationship with their teachers while still balancing the workload and having fun. In every grade level, all students grew in a plethora of areas.

Off to a Fresh Start

Ninth Grade

Ninth grade was a vital year in every Providence Day student's life. Freshman year was the optimum time for peer bonding, which was most openly exemplified by Outward Bound, the well-known, rugged program that freshmen attended in the mountains of North Carolina toward the end of the school year. The unforgettable moments from Outward Bound truly unified the class as a whole once they came back to the normal school setting. Not only was ninth grade the perfect time to make new friends, it was also a time for students to get acclimated to the new upper school life. The transition from middle school was inevitable, but luckily, well-prepared for by the faculty. Upper School clubs and activities as well as sports brought a new feel to the Providence Day community and helped students engage in the endless opportunities offered at PDS. The freshmen brought a lot to the table this year, including talented athletes and students dedicated to helping those around them. The Class of 2016 had a successful year in all areas and are excited to continue on in their Upper School journey in the years to follow.

"The Wake-up Call"

Tenth Grade

As students made the transition from freshman year to sophomore year, they began to get a better grip on the concept of upper school. Tenth grade was a year full of changes. These changes ranged from students taking their first AP course to their first college visit. Daniel Holtzschue described it as "the wake-up call for upper school." Students focused more on studies and the importance of academics instead of just getting by. This year was very different from previous years. Many classes switched over from a regular setting to what is called a "flipped classroom." The idea is that students would take notes at home and then ask questions and do activities in class. Reactions were varied, some students praised the idea, while others loathed it. The freedom of doing work at their own pace encouraged many of the students to excel in the classroom. In spite of all the changes, tenth grade was a fun year that prepared students for their next challenge: junior year.

Almost There

Eleventh Grade

To finally be considered upper classmen was an accomplishment to every student in eleventh grade. They were more than half-way through their upper school careers and there was no looking back. Junior year was mainly focused on school work and keeping up with their grades. Winnie Cleary said that, "Along with this year being very busy with school work, it has also been tough finding time for friends." Luckily, the junior class got a break from school and took an eighteen-hour drive down to the Florida Keys for their class trip. They stayed at the Newfound Harbor Marine Institute, where all of the programs took place. These programs included a squid dissection, the algae lab, and several trips out to the Gulf of Mexico to snorkel with their group. Mark Brame, who was new to the school, said, "Even though a lot of the trip was educational, it was still a great way to get to the know all of my peers." The trip was a great hit that had valuable learning experiences while students did interesting things. It was truly a perfect way to get away from the stress of the year when things "really count."

Did You Know?

Showcasing Five Seniors and Their Talents

Nelson Hall

Nelson Hall strives for perfection in whatever catches his eye. In the 9th grade, he watched a youtube video of someone playing the ocarina, a type of flute from the famous Zelda games. He then decided he wanted to make one, and since then, he has worked on perfecting them with no instruction, simply his own intuition. It doesn't end there, in the summer after 8th grade, he began teaching himself how to woodwork swords. His dedication to his crafts have led him to construct over 120 ocarinas and around 10 swords. These aren't his only talents, far from it. Nelson is apt when it comes to technology, is an avid painter, and also has played the viola since the 5th grade. Nelson plans to continue making ocarinas in college and hopes to standardize production so that he can sell them to other interested individuals. No matter what he does, Nelson has found things he loves, and striven to reciprocate them to perfection.

Sarah Everhart

At the age of seven, Sarah Everhart found her love and passion for playing the piano. She has mastered the skill of piano so well that she is able to play almost any song by ear or by reading music. Throughout her life, Sarah has also learned to play other instruments such as the drums, the flute, and the guitar. She has participated in many musical events and put her talents to work in and out of school. She proved to be a very big asset to the Providence Day Jazz Band, as well as the upper school Girls A Capella group. Sarah hopes to pursue her musical talents in college. When asked to describe her love for music, she stated that "I don't see music as a part of life, I see music as life."

Evan Gold

Not long ago, Evan Gold's grandfather passed on a gift that was very sentimental to him. It was his La Tosca Gretsch Accordion, which is a very unique musical instrument. Evan has been playing this instrument for a year now and he thoroughly enjoys it. He also spends his free time playing other instruments such as the clarinet and the guitar. He loves to play music by a french artist named Yann Tiersen who, like Evan, certainly doesn't limit himself to one instrument. Evan has continued to showcase his musical talents in schools events such as "Noche Acoustica," where students perform talents ranging from writing stories and poetry to singing and playing instruments. When asked what his future plans for music are, Evan simply stated "I plan to keep doing what I'm doing."

Jordan Irvan

Jordan Irvan found her love of riding horses when she was four years old. She loved the feeling of being able to go to the stable in her free time to watch and spend time with her favorite animals. When she was finally able to ride them, it became a passion that she took with her for the rest of her life. Jordan currently has a beautiful brown Irish sport horse, who she named Johnny Dublin. Being able to have alone time with her horse where she can practice her skills, is an indescribable feeling. "I have never been a big team sport kind of person, it's more of a satisfying feeling being able to practice and improve skills on my own," Jordan explained. In October 2011 Jordan participated in the Washington International Horse show where she won the impressive award of the Zone 3 finals. She plans on pursuing her love of horseback riding, by bringing her horse to the college of Texas Christian University in hopes of being on their equestrian team.

Haamid Williams

Probably the first student ever to win both the Most Athletic and Most Artistic superlative, Haamid Williams is a closet artist. His work can be found around campus, and his most notable piece was the roadway lines that went straight through campus. Haamid first became interested in art his freshman year of upper school and has since then taken various art classes, including 3-D Design and AP Studio Art. His two favorite styles of art are tribal artwork and just a simple pen and pencil drawing. Haamid recalled that while he does plan to take art classes in college, he isn't going to be taking it too seriously—for now at least.

From Then...

Class of 2012 Memories

From the TK circus to Spring Fling, middle school dances to senior prom, the Class of 2012 has been through it all together. The friendships made over the years are ones that will last a lifetime. Starting off the year with a bang, the senior class participated in Senior Venture, a four-day adventure in early August in which the senior class traveled to Boston for some class bonding before their final year at Providence Day. After a short plane ride, students assembled in the heart of Boston, split up in groups, and started a lengthy scavenger hunt in which the groups took the "T", Boston's subway line, to get around the city and visit historical sites. The trip also included a 44-mile bike ride through the scenic Cape Cod Rail Trail and a community service project at a cranberry bog where students worked on improving the ecosystem by pulling weeds and clearing paths. All the while, students were able to spend quality time together, sharing exciting memories on their last class trip together.

Lifers

"I have many fond memories looking back on my many years at PDS. I always looked forward to field day, where we found out what color team we were on and who we were competing against. At recess,

I remember climbing on the monkey bars and playing in the sandbox with friends. And, of course, the storywell where we sat and read some great books. Being a lifer has meant a lot to me, and these memories will stay with me forever.

—Max Rudisser (Kindergarten)

"When I started PDS as a TKer, I just wanted to make friends, but as the years went on, I felt like I wasn't just gaining friends, I was gaining a family.

I have watched my classmates grow up over the years. We went through tough times, like watching a favorite teacher retire, but we have all been through the amazing times like going on our first over night trip to Fort Fisher. This is why being a lifer means so much to me."

"You feed 'em, you raise 'em, then one day they're just gone!"—Radar O'Reilly. It is an amazing transition that can occur in only thirteen years. Not so long ago you were a shy and timid kindergartener in Mrs. Cook's class who could summon tears at a moment's notice. A lot of tears! Seldom wanting to be the center of attention, you were happy to follow quietly wherever David might lead you. But no more! Somewhere along the way a bold dancer appeared, with a sharp wit and self-assurance balanced just so with a wonderfully generous heart. We are proud of the confident young woman you've become, and so look forward to the great things to come for you!

Mitch,
We have loved you since the day you were born. You have responded with smiles, hugs, and your friendly, gentle ways. You are talented in many areas, and we are very proud of your accomplishments, but most of all we are proud of the young man you have become. We hope you will always continue to be true to yourself. You have brought us great joy.

7 Things Mitch has taught us:

1. The praying mantis dance.
2. Be comfortable in your skin; you are meant to be wherever you are.
3. Laugh often, even if you get in trouble for it.
4. Goldfish are an absolute food.
5. Be kind and enthusiastic.
6. Assume the best in others.
7. It is more important to take part than to take first place.

Mitch,

You inspire so much happiness in our family. We hope you will continue to embrace the journey.

Congratulations and much love,

Amy Coppala

Amy,

One might ask "What would it take to transform an infant from Planet Crouton into an astonishing young Earth woman?" We would reply, with confidence, that we know the recipe. The main ingredients would include: a nurturing home, a challenging school, an ample dose of gaming, an unending infatuation with Pokemon, some offbeat sleeping patterns, a dangerously messy room, and, oh yes, lots and lots of chicken fingers. Combining all these things, and many more, you have created a person with whom we are very proud. We are sure you will excel in college and go on to pursue your dreams. Just remember that we love you very much and will always be looking forward to your next visit home.

Congratulations, Nicole!!

Cannot believe that your days at PDS are almost over. We have such fond memories of TK tea parties that seem like they were just yesterday! Time has passed too quickly, but we are so excited for your future. Know how much we love you & how proud we are of you! We will always support you.
Love, Mom & Dad

Snikki,

I'm so proud of you! You have not only been the best younger sister I could've asked for, but my best friend through it all. So don't ever forget to do the cooking by the book, and know whatever you chose to conquer next in your life, I'll be here for you 100%! I love you and CONGRATULATIONS!

Matthew De May

Matthew,

Some say that each generation of a family is supposed to surpass those that came before —you are proof of that in our family. The amazing things you have accomplished and the great young man that you've become fill us with pride. And more importantly, we are filled with great hope and expectations for what is to come. The drive and focus that you bring to the task at hand and to your long-term goals are an inspiration. Press on, Matthew, and go for the brass ring—it's yours if you want it. We are very proud of you and love you very much, Mom, Dad, Nicholas and Lindsey

Karen Dimentstein

Dearest Karen,

We have been given the greatest opportunity in the world: the chance to live with you and watch you grow. You have shown great courage and bravery, kindness and caring, love and affection, and common sense and intellect. Whatever comes your way in life, we know you will work hard to be successful. Congratulations!

Love forever,
Your Family

Clay,
 Congratulations! We are so very proud of the wonderful son you are and the delightful young man you have become. A man of compassion, a man of dry wit and a man filled with endless possibilities! Your hard work and dedication have unlocked the door to the world. As you walk through it to begin a new chapter in your life, forever know that our love will be with you.

Always remember that life is a journey...embrace every step along the way!

With love,
 Mom, Dad, Lauryl and Sarah

Colin Fitzpatrick

Colin,

What an exciting journey you are about to take! Looking back, so many good memories have brought us to this stage: your first trip to a "foreign country" at 5 weeks, bringing you home to America at 3 months, your first trip back to Europe at 5 years—with a wild sled ride! Chattanooga, sailing, hiking, Virginia, PDS trips—so many adventures. We still laugh at how worried you were that there wouldn't be any more trips after your brother was born. We hope you'll always keep your love of new and interesting experiences and your country ratio at 1:1 or greater. Have a wonderful time, make the most of your adventures, and remember to text.

It seems like yesterday we brought you home from the hospital in your little white sweater outfit...thank goodness Buppy didn't handle the discharge — we all know he would have brought the wrong baby home...

When you were 5, acting like 25, everyone knew you would be more than capable of handling yourself. And now, you cannot begin to imagine how in awe of you we are. You are the most brilliant, sassy, capable, stubborn, determined, beautiful, hilarious, loving daughter, sister, and granddaughter we know!

We wish you the greatest happiness and utmost success in all your endeavors. May all of your dreams come true and keep reaching for the stars! Someday, you're going to be one!

Love,

Erin Healy

Dear Erin—

Thank you for all the joy and laughter that you have brought into our lives with your warm heart, sharp mind and goofy sense of humor. It's hard to believe that you will be graduating from high school and going off to college soon, but we know that you have the strength, judgment and determination to succeed at whatever you set your mind to. We hope you know how wonderful you are and how very much we love you. Be good.

We will always: Do our "nextercises"— Remember last day is the day before this day and next day is after this day — Put on blue jeans and be fighting... like tough boys — Have daddy shoes whenever you need them. — Say Bedo — Bedo

My Beautiful Baby Sister,

Congratulations! I am so proud of who you are and the admirable young woman you are quickly becoming. You are the most nurturing, beautiful and witty girl I know Cai Cai. I might be the older one, but I certainly look up to you. Your courage, your independence, and your strength inspire me to live my life better every day. Thank you for always being there for me and constantly remembering all of the recipes I seem to forget... The ability to call you my sister and best friend is a gift. I'm so excited for you as I know your future holds something as special and brilliant as you are!

Tate Kramer

Seventeen years of "Tate-ness" in 125 words? The 4-browed babe on our Connecticut lawn, or the shy TK'er chewing on his collar while people called "Tate! Tate!" at so many PDS events? The brother, the class president, the scholar, the volunteer, the globe-trotter? So many accomplishments, but we can't "brag on you".... Too fast we've arrived to see a grown up man before us. Hold fast to your integrity and your ideals. No matter how far you may travel, it's impossible to love you more. Seventeen years of "Tate-ness in 125 words? Impossible.

Katie Metzger

Dear Katie,

You're a beautiful young woman wonderfully engaged in your passions, your community, and your circle of friends. You've come a long way from the little girl who could not dive off the starting block. You gained your confidence competing at baseball against the boys, and you've continued to rise to many challenges in sports and in your life at school. We hope the next chapter in your life holds as many rewards as you have found in the PDS community and that you continue to find joy and inspiration in all that you pursue. Remember to FACE your challenges head on, have Faith in your abilities, Aspire to do great things, Communicate your feelings, and Experience all you dare.

Love,

Megan Mischinski

Dear Megan,

It has been such a blessing to watch you grow. As a little girl, you had strong emotions, strong opinions, and a strong sense of personal style, and you danced through life. And now you have developed into a strong young woman with a beautiful sense of style who has wrapped her emotions and opinions with a strong sense of compassion and care for others. You are such an amazing daughter, sister, friend and person and have had such a positive impact on the lives you have touched so far. As you begin to step further out into the world, know that you will always be held by the deep love, honoring and respect of your family. WE LOVE YOU!! We think you are so great! We are proud of you! We wish you all kinds of joy and success in your future!

Tommy,

We saw this day coming but did not believe it.

The day was so far in the future when you were a new baby, how could you have grown so quickly?

The day was far on the horizon when we walked you to your kindergarten class, how could graduation come as fast as it did?

The day was around the corner when you donned your sport coat for social dance classes, how could you be a fine young man so soon?

The day was visible when you earned your driver's license, how could you be leaving so soon?

The day is here when you step in to your new world, how could we be prouder of you?

I remember all those years in Lower School looking up to my big sister and wanting to be just like her. I'll miss you.

Love, John

Anna Shealy

Cherish yesterday. Dream tomorrow. Live today.
 Congratulations, Anna!

Hayley Snyder

Hayley,

We love your easy-going and unique sense of humor. You have the goodness of heart and intelligence to succeed in whatever you choose to become. Never let anyone pit out your sparkle.

Love,
Mom, Dad and Molly

Hayley Snyder

Happy Graduation to the best little sister ever.
Love, Molly

Hayley Snyder

Happy Graduation, Hayley! We are very proud of you!

Love,
Aunt Helen and Uncle Kenny

Tiffany Mitchell

Tiffany,
Your Courage and Determination has made you the wonderful individual that you are today. Always put God first. Congratulations on all of your accomplishments. Can't wait to see you play at USC...
Go Gamecocks!
Love,
Mom and Tory

Charlie,

It's hard to believe that sweet little red-haired boy who used to trade his dessert for a hug is all grown up and headed to college. We are so proud of the person you've become; you are exceptionally intelligent and talented, and you bring laughter to whomever you're with. When we look back at all the wonderful memories: weekends at the lake, the beach with the McFalls (remember Jungle Land?), Costa Rica trips, countless cross country meets, plays and Scout meetings on your next adventure and never forget your roots. Time to blow this kiddie park!

Lots of hugs and so much love,
The Fam.

Raymond Stanton
 RAYMOND, THANK YOU for... COMING to OUR PLANET, WORKING so HARD, MAKING SACRIFICES, BEING so KIND, SWEET and FUN, HAVING COURAGE and PERSERVERENCE, SHARING your ENTHUSIASM to LEARN, TRY DIFFERENT THINGS, GO on ADVENTURES, MAKE STRANGERS FRIENDS, LEADING YOURSELF WITH DISCIPLINE AND OTHERS WITH LOVE, AND FOR BEING A JOY, BEAN WE LOVE YOU

Emily Stewart

Em,

"The future belongs to those who believe in the beauty of their dreams." —Eleanor Roosevelt

We have been proud of you from the moment you came into this world! We have watched you greet every opportunity with grace and enthusiasm, and you have made the world better around you by challenging others to work at their highest levels. We are excited for you as you're now at the doorstep of a wide world of new adventures. Continue to believe in yourself, and continue to work hard for your dreams! We love you!

Love,
Mom, Dad, and Will

James Stramm

On May 4, 1994, we were hit by Hurricane James—a day that most definitely changed our lives. Your sharp wit makes us laugh and gives us perspective, your keen intelligence enlightens us, your determination to be your own person makes us proud, and your athleticism inspires us while making us wonder if you might have been switched at birth. You have a great future ahead of you, James. Continue to be your own person and use your great mind to find the answers you are seeking. We'll miss you, but rest-assured, we'll be calling you for music and T.V. recommendations or just to hear a good story. We're incredibly proud of you and love you immensely.

Mom, Dad & Sophie

Hanna Terry

Our Sweet Girl Hanna,

Where did your childhood and teenage years go? Gone in a blink. Without a doubt, your life will be great because of who you are. There is some good in everyone, there is every good in you. Be who you are for the rest of your life — laugh, care, make a difference, work hard and love much. "Strong and Brave" — you are amazing! God made a miracle in bringing you into the world. You will make it a better place. Climb those mountains and reach for the moon. We love you more than life itself. Words cannot say how proud we are of you! Always find a "pay pace." "YaYaYee!"

Love to our Angel,
Mom and Dad

Anahid Telfeyan

Anahid, your bubbly, zany personality is irresistible; we are going to miss you! Your integrity is special and rare; when tested, remember your faith and roots. Your love for art is a creative fire; stoke it, burn it, blaze towards your goal.
Love, Dad, Mom and Hasmik.

Dacia Thompson

Dacia, congrats, I'm so proud of you. It seems like yesterday you began your journey at PD. Good job Daysh!
—Mommy

Sister, I'm proud of the journey you've completed at PDS. You went in as an ambitious young girl and is ready to leave as a beautiful young lady.
Love Debbie.

Sophie Tucker

Sophie,

We always knew this day would come. We had no idea it would get here so quickly! We are so proud of you for all the things you have accomplished and the beautiful person you have become.

Love,
Mom, Dad, and Chloe

Nick Velardo

Dear Nick,

Congratulations on all your hard work and accomplishments. We are so proud of you and we know with your heart and determination you will go far in this life. Remember to live with intention, learn from your mistakes, but most of all take time to laugh and enjoy the journey. We love you so much!!!

Love,
Mom, Dad, John & Brad

Amelia Wallace

"My name is Amelia Wallace, and I play for Providence Day School."

"All things are changing, always. Yesterday is dust. Tomorrow is a dream. Our gift is now. And so my sweet angel, may you know, love, and be loved in return. May you know the truth and laughter and peace and happiness, and may the great spirit of the universe enfold you in his arms and keep you safe for always."

Love from Mom, Dad, Caroline and Beth

Ben Weinrib

A toast to Ben, a fine young man,
So confident he knows he can
Accomplish much within his life.
His mind is keen, his hands are quick,
For MVP with little strife.

Ben's strengths are math, geography;
Professional Sports he loves to see,
Compiling data in his log:
Boston Red Sox, Panthers too,
Much time is spent, pre-season review.
Sports Cogniscenti with a blog.

Baseball, Sports Editor, much to do;
Four years of German—travel there too;
Enjoying adventures as an aim.
Ben's feats at home include his pies.
His apple and blueberry take the prize.
In sports and food he'll make a name.

Three cheers for Ben, a sportsman-scholar,
With a buttoned-down mind and a buttoned-down collar.

Daniel Wicker

You don't raise heroes,
You raise sons.
And if you treat them like sons,
They'll turn out to be heroes,
Even if it's just in your eyes.

Daniel, you are our hero!
We love you very much!

Mum, Dad, Matthew and Jacob

Caitlin Willen

Sweetie,

Congratulations! We are so very proud of all that you have accomplished through your hard work. You have the heart of a lion! We love you and are always here for you. Remember: "You are a child of the universe, no less than the trees and the stars; you have a right to be here. And whether or not it is clear to you, no doubt the universe is unfolding as it should."

All our love,
Mom, Dad, Jack, Maeve, and Brenna

Hannah Wilson

Dear Hannah,

You are a blessing and a joy and we are so proud of the young woman that you have become and all that you have achieved. Your creativity, your determination and your caring nature will take you far in life! Here are a few quotes that seem appropriate as you graduate:

"Do not go where the path may lead, go instead where there is no path and leave a trail." —Ralph Waldo Emerson "It's not what you look at that matters, it's what you see." —Henry David Thoreau "The earth laughs in flowers." —e. e. cummings

Love,
Mom & David

Hannah Wilson

Hannah, you've always been a bit different, but that's what makes you such an awesome person! You're never worried about what people think. You are funny, kind, smart, and I can't wait to see what you make of your future. Congratulations on getting this far, and best of luck for the future.
Love, Henry and Connor

Haamid Williams

Haamid, congratulations! You are a fine young man. Because of you, my life is continuously enhanced. Thank you for being true to yourself; it has certainly made being your parent easy. I am confident that you will do well in everything you set your mind to. So continue to be encouraged.
I Love you!
—Mommy

Mara Woollard

Babygirl,

Dad's curly-haired promise to Mom, fashionista scooter rider, unflappable game saver, farm girl, princess of the Faire, LukeTy's tough little sister, dangerously good cook, lady of the spotted land, Hoover's best friend, ER record holder, precocious president or parent, sailor, drama queen (the good kind), fearless horsewoman, fly fisher, adventurous traveler, astute observer, stalwart friend, accomplished daughter, empathetic, much-loved Mara. From Hoovers Heroes to CCSJ, Science Olympiad gold to ridding ribbons, you're quite the Renaissance woman. We watch you with awe and anticipation. You light our lives; can't wait to see what's next. Wishing you a road that rises to meet you and a wind that's always at your back.

Lotsa love,
Mom, Dad, Luke, Tyler, Hoover, and Ditto

Molly Yandle

Molly,

You will always be our Little Bit and our Angel Princess. We are so proud of you and hope all your dreams come true!

Love always,
Dad, Mom, Emily and Jill

25 years ago, Charlotte suddenly became quite fashionable.

It was 1986 when we opened our doors and fashion savvy Charlotteans realized they no longer needed to go to Atlanta or New York to find the finest in apparel.

Join us as we commemorate our 25th Anniversary this fall. As always, you'll discover designer lines and hand-selected pieces unavailable anywhere else in town. For him, for 25 years. (And now, for her too.)

Dear Friends,

Looking back on this whole year, it's hard to believe that we've made it to this point. Every single member of this staff has made this yearbook what it is now, and we couldn't have done it without any of you. There have been countless times when you all have had to come in on weekends or spend lunches in yearbook, but you never complained and for that we are forever grateful.

Mr. Dewey: Thank you so much for putting up with us and always believing in us. Even when deadlines were missed or things were cut close, you never got mad you just kept on pushing us to do our best. You're constant jokes and nicknames given to everyone in the class always kept us lively and ready to work. Also, thank you so much for all your work on the cover. We really couldn't have made this yearbook without you Mr. Dewey, so thank you for that.

Danae Massengill: You were our rock this year. Whenever we needed something to be written or work to be done, you were always ready to help out. As Senior Section Editor, you helped make sure all the baby pictures were turned in and superlative pictures were taken. Your determination to get your work done quickly and with the utmost quality will take you far in the future. Looking back on this school year, I don't know what we would have done without you and your willingness to help out at all times. Thank you, have fun in college, and you will be greatly missed next year!

Sarah Findlay: What would we have done without our amazing photo editor. Your persistence in making sure all the photos were taken on time and with good quality, made this yearbook one of the best ones yet. More importantly, however, was your outstanding work on the dividers. You help design and organize them, so they were unique and definitely an aspect of our yearbook that will be remembered. Your willingness to stay during lunch help make sure this yearbook was finished on time and looked amazing. Thank you so much for all your work and good luck in college!

Vanessa Sutthoff: As Business Manager, your constant effort and organization managed to keep us on track even when things got hectic. Whenever one of us would ask about the business and senior ads, you were always ready to help us out. Along with business manager, you greatly helped us by working on all types of spreads and taking pictures. We know you will do an outstanding job next year, and wish you the best of luck!

Natalie Jones: The cover is what makes a yearbook, and we couldn't have made the cover without you. The artsy design and hand-drawn doodles made it stand out as one of our most unique yearbooks to date. Also, your hardwork on the dividers made them outstanding as well. You have an eye for making things look good and this will take you far in the future. Thank you and have fun in college!

Lauren Dillingham: As a first-time staffer this year, you did an excellent job working on spreads and taking photos. We greatly appreciated your work ethic and eye for photography. Next year, I know you will work hard and help out a great deal, so that the yearbook will be amazing. Thank you so much for everything and good luck next year!

Marcelo Yanez: Thank you for your absolute willingness to help at all times. We could always count on you from day one when you offered to scan every single picture. You have an incredible knack for cameras, which is a great quality to have as a yearbook staffer. We cannot thank you enough for always volunteering and wanting to help, even if at first you thought this was "just a club." Thanks again Marcelo, and good luck in everything you do next year!

This yearbook is a representation of the work that nine students and one teacher put in day after day and holds many memories on each page. We are forever grateful for the support and help that we received as a staff this year and thank everyone for always standing by us. This yearbook is for everyone that goes to this school because we know that each person has a life worth highlighting.

Sincerely,

Katie Metzger, John Hunting, and Karen Dimentstein

Liberty, volume 41, was produced by the yearbook staff at Providence Day School in Charlotte, North Carolina, and was printed by the Herff Jones Company in Charlotte, North Carolina. The account was serviced by representative Jessica Daniel and customer service advisor MaryJo Davidson. The cover was created by Natalie Jones and Richard Dewey. The cover, endsheets, and pages were printed with five inks that are part of the neon lights swatch provided by Herff Jones. The book's 323 pages are printed in full color on 100 pound gloss paper stock. All body copy, captions, and headlines were set in AHJ Imperial or AHJ Mistral. Layouts were submitted to the plant via upload to the Herff Jones website. Liberty was produced using Adobe InDesign CS4 and Adobe Photoshop CS4 on iMac Intel Core i5 2.5 GHz computers. All staff photographs were taken using Nikon D40, Nikon D50 and Nikon D3000 digital cameras. Submitted print photos were scanned on Hewlett Packard Scanjet 4890 scanners. Professional portraits were provided by Metro Portraits (TK-12 grade). All celebrity photographs are public-domain images from wikipedia.com. The 1,666 copies of the book were distributed to faculty and students as part of their benefits or tuition.

Midnight in Morocco

Prom 2012

This year's prom took a trip to the beautiful country of Morocco, making it a night to remember. There was a buzz around the school in the weeks leading up to prom in anticipation for what the night would have in store. The prom committee, which consisted of a group of junior girls, did a great job of keeping every detail a secret. Everyone arrived at Ballantyne Country Club where they were appropriately greeted by two camels at the entrance. Decorations fit for the theme such as lanterns, carpets, and marbles, filled the room, creating a lovely ambiance for the students to enjoy. After dinner was served, students gathered outside on the lawn lit by torches and hanging lights, overlooking the golf course. They were then entertained with an evening performance by moroccan belly dancers. Teachers and students both participated in the performance that brought laughs from everyone. As the stars began to light the sky, dancing, photography, and desserts were available for everyone. When it was time to announce the senior Prom King and Queen, as well as the junior Prince and Princess, everyone gathered around Mrs. Loyola as she revealed the names. Juniors, Wyatt Packer and Tinsley Berry were awarded with Prom Prince and Princess. Following them Seniors, Reed Payne and Molly Yandle were announced the big title of Prom King and Queen. Excitement and joy filled the air, and they were surrounded by classmates as they took the dance floor and ended the night on a magical note.

The Fling 2012

Spring Fling

Year after year Providence Day continuously hosts their Spring Fling event. An event full of games, food, and activities for all students. This year's Spring Fling was like no other. The team behind Spring Fling added many new forms of entertainment and activities that were never experienced before at PDS. Among the new rides were bumper cars and water slides, which assured everyone a good time. Spring Fling kicked off with an all-school pep rally on Friday with students performing in skits and performances. The highlight performance was an eating contest in which students competed against teachers. The pep rally got everyone in the mood for a weekend full of festivities. The event took place on a sunny Saturday which was perfect for all of the outdoor rides. Spring Fling is also renown for its student and teacher musical performances, which were a great success. With all of these new activities and rides, everyone enjoyed a busy and exciting day at Spring Fling.

Batter Up

Varsity Baseball

This year's varsity baseball team definitely made the season one to remember. This team was closer than ever which made them even more invincible to play against. Senior Tim Mansfield said, "Coming into the season we knew that we had a lot of talent, it was just a matter of clicking with each other and we did. Because we were so close off the field we became much better on the field. Overall it was a great season!" The team's toughest competitor was the undefeated Ardrey Kell High School. Although they lost, the charger boys played an outstanding game and it lead them a seven game win streak. Their best game this season was against Covenant Day School. They were down 7-3, and by the 6th inning they made an amazing comeback to win. Everyone on the team gave it their all and it was a big win early in the season.

Strong Finish

Varsity Softball

It was the top of the 7th inning, the Chargers were playing their second game in Disney World, and they were down by two. Everyone on the team was nervous but ready to go as they stepped up to the plate. The Chargers managed to go up by one after senior Emily Moore hit a double that scored two. But this battle wasn't over yet. The Charger pitcher, junior Hannah Duchardt, successfully struck out two players on the opposing side, but there was still one out left and the bases were loaded. The count was 3-2 and all eyes were on Duchardt as she delivered the final pitch. And suddenly, as the umpire yelled, "Strike Three!" it was all over. This game was the team's first win, and definitely a win to remember. The Chargers continued to have a successful season, earned a spot at states, and finished out the year strong.

To The Goal

Varsity Boys Lacrosse

The Varsity Boys Lacrosse team had a very successful season. The group of guys on this team were headstrong for playing hard and winning and were very optimistic in every game they played. One game in particular that left the Chargers with a victory was against rival Country Day. With strong ground ball play in the midfield and overall great hustle from the team, the boys came away with a 10-2 victory. The defense, led by senior Josh Ohaus and sophomore Jake Chandler, also helped keep these men in line. They rarely let any balls slip into the goal, where sophomore Mitch Renfrow kept his post and made some impressive saves throughout the game. Ohaus added, "Our team had a combination of youth and experience and that was key for the lacrosse team this year. A solid, determined group of seniors, coupled with a number of very talented underclassmen, drove the team to a tremendous amount of success in my final year of playing lacrosse at Providence Day."

Fast Break

Varsity Girls Lacrosse

Headstrong and highly motivated by their coach, Mrs. Robinson, the Varsity Girls Lacrosse team had a season full of victories. Senior captains Austin Brown, Cailan Howey, and Mara Woollard also helped lead this team to their success. Their greatest win came against Forsyth Country Day where 21 goals were scored by the Chargers—the most goals they had ever scored in a game before. Forsyth Country Day might have been an easy win for them seeing as the score was 21-7, but the best game where the girls came out with a victory was against Cape Fear Academy. This was an intense nail-biter of a game where the girls truly showed their skills. The game ended with a close 12-11 victory for the team. Austin Brown said after the game that, “Everyone really stepped up and worked very hard this season, making it our best yet!”

A Fresh Team

Varsity Girls Soccer

It was a warm spring night when the Varsity Girls Soccer team took down their fiercest rivals, the Country Day Bucs, on April 3rd for the first time in 8 years. The Charger girls let up a goal early in the game, but that didn't stop them from dominating their opponents for the remainder of the game. Freshman Lauren Lucas had an outstanding game, finishing with a hat trick and leaving the Bucs in awe of the Charger girls' talent on the field. Senior Captain Hayley Snyder explains, "So far, the season has been really fun. Although we have a young team, we have great chemistry and beat Country Day for the first time in 8 years." All the younger girls on the team were looking forward to their upcoming seasons as members of the Varsity Girls Soccer team and couldn't wait to beat the Bucs in the future.

Domination

Varsity Boys Golf

At the beginning of the season, the Varsity Boys Golf team participated in the Carmel Country Club Invitational along with ten other teams where they placed first, winning by just one stroke. Junior Christian Chichan won individuals with an impressive score of 70. The Chargers definitely started their season off with high expectations. Even with a young team comprised of only two seniors, these expectations didn't falter as the golf team pulled through with a very strong season, winning almost every single game. Senior Yates Downing said, "It is fun to hang out with friends while also winning and improving my golf skills." The boys' golf team set high standards for years to come.

Tight Knit

Varsity Boys Tennis

Often sports teams become close through all the trials they go through during the year. Varsity men's tennis took it a step further; they might as well have been family. John Cambern, who has been on the team since freshman year, said, "This team doesn't crumble as each group of seniors graduates, each year they develop the next generation of leaders, that really makes this team healthy." This team was friends on and off the court, forming strong bonds. As a result, they are a force to be reckoned. This team's stars were not just seniors either, this team ranges from the beginning to the end: freshman to seniors. No other team supported each other like this tennis team. At every match they chanted, cheered, and supported their teammates, and as a result, they easily defeated almost all of their opponents.

Taking Over

Varsity Track & Field

This year's Varsity Track and Field team had one of their best seasons yet and with almost 60 boys and 36 girls on the roster, they had one of the largest teams thus far. Twice this season the team defeated their long time rival, Charlotte Latin. After qualifying for states after only one meet, field event master Charlie Sowers recalls that "under Coach Hovis, we were working together towards a great improvement from last year." In The North Carolina Blue Ridge Classic, both the boys and girls finished third out of twenty five schools. It was there that sophomore Ben Huffman was awarded the Boy's Track Events Most Valuable Player for winning the 1600, 3200, and 4X800. It's no secret that this year's Varsity Track Team achieved great success and seeing as they are a new team, they look forward to many more dominating seasons to come.

Swing Batter

JV Baseball

It was the bottom of the seventh inning and Nick Giordano was up to bat against rival Charlotte Catholic. His game-winning hit gave the Chargers the victory they had been trying so hard to achieve. JV Baseball had a season full of exciting wins, scoring more than 10 runs in most games. A team comprised mostly of freshmen and sophomores, and dealing with a handful of injuries overcame inexperience and adversity for a highly successful season. Freshman pitcher Alexander Roupas surprised everyone with his strong pitching arm, while also contributing in the outfield. Defensively, sophomore third baseman James Pierpoint contributed greatly to the Chargers' winning season through his stellar defensive play. Overall, it was a year to remember.

In The Zone

JV Boys Lacrosse

Lead by Coach Jamie Schmidt, the JV Boys Lacrosse team worked hard all season to improve their record. Obtaining ground balls and strengthening up the defense were two key components to thank for their improvement throughout the season. This young team comprised mostly of freshmen and sophomores, fought hard to beat some top competitors such as Forsyth Country Day. Sophomore and captain Jake Ballenger said, "This was a really productive season; we had a lot of new players but we really bonded into a true team." Although the team didn't come out with a winning record, this season helped many players prepare for playing on varsity next year.

Keep Away

JV Girls Soccer

The JV Girls Soccer team played with high spirits and full minds at every game this season. They put on their game faces and were ready to dominate the fields every chance they had. Even though every game didn't come out a victory for the girls, they still had a team full of winners. The team had an outstanding win against Cannon School, beating them 4-0, which was by far their best game of the season. Sophomore Charlie Burgess stated that, "Everyone played great at the game against Cannon, and our team really did have a great season that was full of fun times. Everyone got along so well; it's going to be a team I'll miss."

Fierce Forehands

JV Boys Tennis

This year, Junior Varsity Boys Tennis was made up of an astounding twelve freshman and one sophomore who lead them. This young team plowed through the competition, defeating Latin 8-1 and Country Day 9-0. Thomas Watts, one of team captains, said "This team was amazing, there was so much skill that I am proud to be part of this team." Even though the team was fresh off the block, they really made Providence Day proud with such an astounding record.

Home Run

MS Baseball

Lead by Coach Springer and Coach Downs, the Middle School Baseball team worked hard to improve their record this year. They made sure to do the little things each game and really focused every time they walked on the field, which helped them be quite successful. Big wins included defeating their rivals Charlotte Country Day school and Charlotte Latin, which helped move their conference rank up. This large team was full of boys ready to defeat anyone that stood in their way.

Catch 'Em

MS Softball

The MS Softball team had a great season this year. Their best game was against rivals Charlotte Christian. The game was back and forth, but in the last inning, the Chargers were down three. Nothing could bring the team down as they scored eight runs with two outs and walked away with the 15-11 win. Seventh grader Julianna Roupas reflects on the game by saying, "It was a good game all the way through, and everyone came together in the end which helped us pull out the victory." Overall, the team had a great season beating every rival team and looks forward to next year's season.

The Comeback

MS Girls Lacrosse

The middle school girls lacrosse team had a very tough beginning to the season with seven consecutive losses. They worked to improve their team and they succeeded. They ended their losing streak with a game against Fort Mill Middle School in which they scored 10-2. The team continued to work hard and created a winning streak for themselves. It was quite a victorious year for the middle school girls lacrosse team.

Do Work

MS Boys Lacrosse

It's really no secret that this year's Middle School Boys Lacrosse team had one of their best years in a while. With the help and guidance of a new coach, Coach Cater, the boys really gave this season their all. Upon looking back on the year, Andrew Ludwick stated that "We all really excelled since last year. There was a good balance in skills and everyone's strengths really worked together in a positive way." In one game against Country Day, eighth grader Grant Henderson recalled that "we were neck and neck but thanks to an overall effort of the team we were able to pull off a well deserved win."

Precision

MS Girls Soccer

The middle school girls soccer team had an awesome season, the highlight being their 1-0 victory over the Country Day Bucs. With a score that was tied at zero and time winding down, the Chargers got a corner kick that changed the game. Eighth grader Camille Appleby lined up the kick and timed it perfectly for eighth grader Allison Gray to head the ball into the goal, winning the game for the Chargers. The team celebrated their well earned victory and were proud of their hard work throughout the season.

Victorious

MS Boys Golf

The middle school golf team began their season in March with a successful victory against Lake Norman Charter, 178-231 at Cedarwood Country Club. On April 3rd the team played against Charlotte Latin and pummeled them to the ground with a score of 176-205. The team played well throughout the season and the eighth graders are now prepared for next year's varsity team.

Serve It Up

MS Boys Tennis

The middle school boys tennis team strived very hard this year in order to achieve success. In the majority of their wins the boys continued to dominate their opponents. Each player gave it their all and as a team they grew closer and bonded like a family. The seventh grade boys were excited to show their talents on the courts for the first time, and the eighth graders are looking forward to moving up to play on the high school teams.

Making Strides

MS Track & Field

The middle school track and field team had an impressive season in spring 2012, coming in first and third place in two of their meets. Eighth grader Elies Friedman explained, "This was a great season. Some people started out not knowing a lot about track but progressed a lot throughout the season." Middle School Track focused on the basics and prepared kids for the varsity level, and did a successful job as many of the middle schoolers feel that they are ready to advance to the next level in their area of expertise, whether it be pole vaulting, shot put, high jump, long jump, discus, or running.
